

We are proud to be a part of the Crown Heights community. For more than 60 years, we have educated young Haitian immigrants at our bilingual school. In fact, we were the first Haitian Seventh-day Adventist Church in North America. We also host precinct council meetings and other public events, and always try to work for the greater good as civic leaders.

That is why we see it as our responsibility to preserve a piece of Crown Heights' history by restoring our landmarked school building. At the same time, we can also provide affordable housing for local residents who need it—all while keeping our school open and serving a population in need of support.

The proposal detailed on this Web site does all of these things. But, most importantly, it allows us to keep providing young people from modest backgrounds with a strong education and the foundation they need to launch their lives in America.

We hope that you will lend your support to this worthy project. Please take a moment and add your name to our online petition. With your help, we will protect our past and our future with one great effort.

Sincerely,

Pastor Moise Manigat
